Dan Raymond graduated from the Deposit Central School District in 1976. Dan attended SUNY Cortland where he earned his bachelor's degree in 1997 and subsequently earned his master's degree from Le Moyne College in 1999. Since 1995, Dan has devoted his life's work to coaching and mentoring college athletes. From 1995-1997, Dan acted as the assistant coach for the Cortland Red Dragons and was promoted to head coach for the 1997-1998 season. Since 1999, Dan has been serving the students at Ithaca College as the assistant coach of women's softball and the head coach of women's basketball. Dan holds the record as the most winning basketball coach and has led his team to fifteen appearances at the NCAA playoffs. Dan has been awarded the honor of Empire Coach of the Year an impressive eight times. According to Dan, "...relationships are what coaching is all about. The wins and championships are all secondary in my mind, truly. That's not why I'm doing what I'm doing. It's to watch a young college student mature and develop during the course of their four years here... That's the reward I get." (The Ithacan, April 2019)

Major William E. Burgess, U.S. Army, Retired, class of 1976, is a highly accomplished military veteran, serving his Country for a total of 26 years. During his time in the Army, Major Burgess received his R.N. degree from Pittsburgh State University and his master's degree in Human Relations and Public Health from the University of Oklahoma. Throughout his life and career, Major Burgess has concentrated his efforts on service to others with a specialization in health, wellness, and meeting the needs of under-served populations. His resume includes a variety of prestigious positions including Clinical Case Manager at Walter Reed National Military Medical Center, Community Health Chief of Nursing, and Director of Clinical Services. Additionally, Major Burgess has received numerous advanced certifications and has presided as a guest speaker at wellness conferences around the world. In 2008, Major Burgess was called out of retirement to advocate for soldiers returning from active duty. Major Burgess served as a Representative of the Senate Armed Forces Subcommittee on Warrior Care and donates his time to humanitarian causes such as The Special Olympics and The Wounded Warrior Program. Major Burgess lives in Cordova, TN, with his wife, Chinette. He is the proud father of three daughters, a son-in-law, six grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.
